

Hefma 2010 National Awards

Presentation of Awards at the 13th Annual Conference Gala Dinner, Majestic Hotel, Harrogate

The Awards are an opportunity for our industry to recognise and pay tribute to individuals and teams across the country that are making an outstanding contribution within NHS Estates and Facilities services, which play an integral part in improving the patient environment and experience

Facilities Manager of the Year

This award will be made to the person who demonstrates outstanding personal performance and career development in delivering Estate and Facilities Services that are highly regarded by service users.

The judges will be looking for an innovative approach to facilities management within the NHS and will make their decision based on:

- How the person has applied their skills to solving major issues,
- Initiated change which has ultimately led to improving the patients experience and ultimately
- How they have contributed to Facilities Management as a whole.

Project Manager of the Year

Project Manager of the year will be awarded to the individual who best demonstrates the most effective project management competence, no matter the scale or type of project.

Project managers should be able:

- To create an environment for success
- Provide the drive and impetus to innovate and achieve.
- The successful nominee will have balanced technical and management skills
- A high degree of communication and interpersonal skills
- The ability to remain focused to ensure the objectives of the project are met.

Facilities Team of the Year

This award will go to a team of people who can demonstrate that they have consistently delivered excellent services to their customers including patients, staff, and visitors.

The team may be as few as three or many more.

The judges will be looking for evidence as to:

- What service improvements have been delivered to improve their customers' experience
- Improved patient experience
- Improved patient satisfaction scores
- Genuine team spirit

Training Initiative of the Year

This award recognizes a team or individual working in the NHS who has met one or more of the following criterion:

- Developed an innovative training initiative that adds value to Estates and Facilities functions
- Introduced a training initiative that has improved services for greater efficiency
- Managed their training in such a way that demonstrates creative technical innovation.
- Enabled all tiers of the workforce to access training/learning and development
